SCHWAB BACKS DOWN TO HUSH UP SCANDAL

He Withdraws Opposition to the Appointment of a Permanent Receiver for United States Shipbuilding Company, Hoping to Avoid Further Exposure.

Lawyer Will Fight to the Last to Keep Him Off Witness Stand--- Attorney for Bondholders Makes a Vigorous Fight Before Judge Kirkpatrick.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 13 .- Charles M. Schwab, the alleged wrecker of the United States Shipbuilding Company, threw up his hands in a hearing before United States Circuit Judge Kirkpatrick in Newark to-day. His counsel, William D. Guthrie, broke away completely from the firm stand he had maintained. He admitted the insolvency of the Shipbuilding Company and withdrew his opposition to the appointment of a permanent receiver

Of the many sensational moves in this remarkable legal drama of high finance the complete surrender of the defendants, who may be incorporated under the name of Mr. Schwab, is the most start-

MAKES SACRIFICE OF MILLIONS.

After engaging the best legal talent to be found before the New York bar and fighting with every legal technicality available in the intricacles of corporation law, the complete surrender of the defense and the consequent sacrifice of many millions of dollars, shows beyond doubt that the Schwab and Morgan interests could not bear further exposure in what Receiver Smith has characterized as the "most artistic swindle in the history of high

The purpose of to-day's hearing was to have Judge Fitzpatrick rule on a motion made by Lawyer Guthrie to hold the Shipbuilding inquiry before a regular court because Special Examiner Oliphant has been unable to suppress the "sensational publicity" that has heretofore attended the proceed-

Mr. Guthrie further moved that Mr. Schwab be relieved from the necessity of answering Mr. Untermyer's questions regarding his holdings of United States Shipbuilding Company and in Steel securities. It was a last weak attempt to forestall further exposure of the methods used by Mr. Schwab in securing complete control of the Shipbuilding combination and his use of his command of the Trust.

GIVES NOTICE OF HIS BACKDOWN.

Feeling the futility of this line of defense, Mr. Guthrie filed a notice on Lawyer Untermyer last night that he was willing to surrender his stand, confirm the insolvency of the Shipbuilding Company, and pray for the appointment of Mr. Smith as permanent receiver. This despite the fact that Mr. Smith has charged Schwab with fraud.

When Judge Andrew Kirkpatrick called the case in the Post-Office Building, the full array of legal talent, representing the contending interests, was on hand.

Mr. Untermyer opened the proceedings by notifying the court that he had five questions to put before the court. Before Mr. Untermyer had enumerated his various motions Mr. Guthrie intervened and declared that he wished to present a motion for leave to file an amended answer to the nitting the insolvency of the Shipbuilding Company and also asking for the appointment of a permanent receiver.

TO STOP FURTHER REVELATIONS. "Do you expect this motion will put an end to the further taking of testimony?" asked Mr. Untermyer. "Yes," replied Mr. Guthrie, "I contend that this amended answer, praying for the appointment of a permanent receiver and the complete admission of the insolvency of the Company, will put an end to the entire proceedings."

Mr. Guthrie added that the complaint simply asked that the Company he declared insolvent and that a permanent receiver be named. He asserted that he did not understand the complaint to charge fraud against Mr. Schwab and the directors.

Judge Kirkpatrick said he understood the original application for a receiver to charge that the directors of the Company had been guilty of gross mismanagement in directing the affairs of the Company.

Mr. Guthris then said that if the taking of testimony was to continue he would move that all further proceedings be had in open court. He understood, he said, a motion was to be made to have Mr. Schwab made a co-defendant, and also a motion to compel Mr. Schwab to answer questions of an entirely personal nature. Mr. Guthrie asked for a postponement in order to answer these motions.

In reply to Mr. Guthrie's argument that his amended answer would put an end to the proceedings Mr. Untermyer launched into a long argument the pith of which was that the original complaint contained allegations of ind and gross mismanagement on the part of the directors and those who trolled the directorate of the company. He contended that these allegations of further testimony. They gave their names as George Williams, of No. 27 Broadway, Brooklyn, and William Ziner, Washington avenue and Water street, Laurel Hill. in the proposed amended answer was concerned he was willing to accept it, but he was not willing to retreat from his motion that Mr. Schwab be made co-defendant and compelled to meet the charges of fraud and mismanagement. He asked that the bondholders' suit under consideration and the suits for the foreclosure of the Schwab mortgages of $10,000,000 and $16,000,000 held by the New York Security and Trust Company and the Mercantile Trust Company, instituted by Mr. Schwab, should be consolidated in one action. Mr. Untermyer quoted a great mass of authorities in support in answer Mr. Untermyer referred to several decisions supporting his argument. He declared that Mr. Schwab had on the witness stand admitted the employment of Mr. Guthrie to defend his interests in the suit. He said that Mr. Schwab named the directors of the company and controlled them, and finally charged that Mr. Schwab's' interests made up the entire lefense to the present suit. Therefore, he argued, Schwab should be made co-defendant and compelled to take the stand.

EW OBSTACLE RAISED BY SCHWAB.

Mr. Guthrie replied that he was willing to consent to having Mr. Schwab le a party defendant.

court will have no jurisdiction over Mr. Schwab. Immediately he is made a co-defendant he will demur to the jurisdiction of this court. Mr. Schwab is willing to come here and challenge the jurisdiction of this court."

"If the court decides it has jurisdiction over Mr. Schwab," asked Mr. Untermyer, "will be respond to a subpoena?"

Judge Kirkpatrick held that Mr. Guthrie need not answer this question "I don't care for such an advantage over my opponent," said Mr. Guthrie, "but, if he insists, we must take advantage of it. In all candor and fairness front-Mr. Schwab is willing to sacrifice everything rather than we say to the court that the entry of such an order will completely oust the

"We don't think so," said Mr. Untermyer

"We are not here to lay traps or be sharp," Mr. Guthrie rejoined, "but, according to our lights, ultimately to get at the bottom of this miserable

"That depends entirely upon your point of view," interrupted the Court. "If Mr. Schwab has been guilty of any wrongful acts, he must abide the onsequences," replied Mr. Guthrie. "All we ask is opportunity, in due form, at the proper time, and in proper proceedings, to have the questions affecting Mr. Schwab's reputation fairly adjudged.

"Will Mr. Schwab enter an appearance?" asked the Court.

"I will answer." said Mr. Guthrie, "that we will meet these question in due course.

"How is Mr. Schwab to be brought into court," interrupted Judge Kirkpatrick, "unless he comes voluntarily to the court, as he lives outside the "Mr. Schwab will appear and submit to the jurisdiction of the court,"

Mr. Guthrie replied, "but only for the purpose of challenging its jurisdic-This ended the argument. Both sides agreed to file briefs covering their contentions to-morrow. Counsel also agreed to decide which of their many motions they would take up at the next hearing, which Judge Kirkpatrick ordered for Monday next in Trenton.

BOUND TO PROTECT SCHWAB.

Mr. Guthrie said that although he was willing to surrender almost his entire case he is going to fight the further examination of Mr. Schwab to the last bitter technicality.

Mr. Guthrie agreed to allow Mr. Untermyer to file a supplemental bill and the Union, and still he said he knew making Mr. Schwab a co-defendant and Mr. Untermyer agreed that Mr. Guthrie should be allowed to file a supplemental answer admitting the insolvency of the company and allowing the appointment of a permanent re-
